

Canada's finest handcrafted vodka: there can only be One.

CanadaOne is named after the distiller's cut—the purest one percent of a spirit that is achieved for a brief moment at the peak of distillation. To get to that one percent, we use one grain, from one farm, at one distillery. While seemingly simple, our vodka is unconventional, distilled in the same copper pot stills we use for our whisky, and from barley instead of wheat. Once it's in a glass, there's no mistaking it. CanadaOne vodka is as pure as the barley and spring water it's made from—an unmistakably Canadian vodka.

Tasting Notes:

CanadaOne is neutral on the nose with a light, grain sweetness and a hint of floral aromas. The palate is quite round, with a clean, crisp, semi-sweet grain finish.

Shelter Point Farm and Distillery

Established in 2011, Shelter Point Distillery is located on 380 acres in Oyster River, BC, about halfway up the eastern side of Vancouver Island on the west coast of Canada. The land encompasses 2,000 metres of spectacular oceanfront, a natural mosaic of streams, a salmon-bearing river, wetlands, forests and fields—all shared with native wildlife, from bald eagles and great blue herons to black tailed deer and black bears. Farmed for generations, Shelter Point remains one of the last seaside farms on the Island.
